

Will Your Digital Identity and Electronic Accounts End Up In Purgatory?

Have you thought about everything that you do electronically and what how you access those electronic accounts and programs? Is a password is required? If you become unable to manage your affairs or die, will someone else be able to manage or delete these things? You should consider creating a list of all accounts and programs that you use online (ie: email, facebook, bank and utility accounts), the computer or mobile device you use and the passwords for all of those. This list should be stored in a very secure place but is a place that is easily accessible by your power of attorney or executor when needed. You should also consider a provision in your Will granting authority to your executor or someone else to manage your digital identity and accounts.

Connie den Hollander

Recognized by Canada's Lexpert
(2018) peer survey as one of
Canada's Leading Practitioners